

Item Cards

Molotov Cocktail

Description: A makeshift incendiary device. Effective against creatures vulnerable to fire.

Usage: Consumed on use.

Deals significant fire damage in an area. Particularly effective against Undead types like Mummies.

""Light 'em up!""

Atlantian Stun Grenade

Description: Ancient Atlantian technology designed for non-lethal crowd control.

Usage: Single use. Detonates

in a burst of disorienting energy. Targets in the area must pass a Sanity check or suffer short-term memory loss (forgetting events of the past few minutes) and be stunned for 1-2 rounds.

""What was I just doing?""

Atlantian Battery

Description: A power source for ancient Atlantian devices.

Usage: Has 1d6 charges remaining when found. Each charge can activate an Atlantian device (e.g., opening the Repository portal). A successful Technology or Lore check might allow a character to estimate remaining charges.

""Still got some juice left... I hope.""

Atlantian Guiding Crystal

Description: A small crystal that resonates with Atlantian energy flows.

Usage: Can be held against a solid barrier (like the granite door) to get a brief, fuzzy psychic impression of what is immediately on the other side (e.g., air quality, immediate hazards, presence of large objects). Consumes 1 charge from an Atlantian Battery per use.

""A window into the stone.""

Eagle Feather of Discernment

Description: A dark feather imbued with subtle energy, often associated with the Eagle Faction.

Usage: Can be held or focused upon. Grants advantage on a single check related to seeing through illusions, detecting lies, or resisting gaslighting attempts. Crumbles to dust after use.

""Do not be deceived.""

Grappling Hook

Description: A sturdy hook and rope for climbing or traversing gaps.

Usage: Requires a successful

Athletics check to use effectively. Can be anchored to suitable surfaces. Useful for bypassing physical obstacles.

""Up and over.""

High-Powered Flashlight

Description: A modern tactical flashlight with an intensely bright beam.

Usage: Requires batteries.

Can provide ample illumination in dark areas. Can be shone in an opponent's eyes; target must pass a Dexterity or Constitution check (GM's discretion) or be momentarily blinded (disadvantage on attacks/checks) for one round. Particularly effective against creatures sensitive to light.

"Let there be light... blinding light."

Voice Mimicry Device

Description: A small electronic device that can record and play back short audio snippets, or distort existing sounds.

Usage: Requires batteries.

Can be used to create distractions, mimic voices (with a successful Deception check), or amplify small noises. Effective for leading enemies away or creating diversions.

"Did you hear that?"

Field Medic Kit

Description: A standard kit containing medical supplies for treating injuries.

Usage: Single use per kit (or multiple uses with limited healing per use, GM's discretion). Allows a character to attempt a Medicine check to heal a certain amount of HP or stabilize a dying character.

"Hold still, this might sting a bit."

Eagle Faction Communicator

Description: A standard communication device used by Eagle Faction personnel.

Usage: Requires batteries.

Can intercept unencrypted Eagle Faction communications within range. With a successful Technology or Investigation check, players might be able to send simple spoofed messages or triangulate enemy positions.

Risk of being traced if used improperly.

"Whispers on the airwaves."

Ancient Map Fragment

Description: A brittle piece of papyrus or aged vellum with a section of a map.

Usage: Can be pieced together with other fragments or studied with a successful Lore or Investigation check to reveal hidden passages, locations of interest, or the layout of ancient structures.
"X marks the spot... if only I had the rest of it."

Cipher Wheel

Description: A small, intricate disc or set of rings with symbols.

Usage: Requires a successful Lore or Investigation check to understand its use. Can be used to decode encrypted messages found on enemies or in ancient texts, or potentially encode messages for safe communication.
"The key lies in the pattern."

Water Filtration Tablets

Description: Small tablets that purify contaminated water.

Usage: Each tablet can purify a liter of water, making it safe to drink. Essential for extended exploration in areas without clean water sources.
"A taste of civilization in the wilderness."

Blessed Scarab

Description: A small, stone scarab carving, cool to the touch.

Usage: Once per session, the holder can invoke its blessing to gain advantage on a single saving throw against a supernatural effect or a Sanity check.
"Protection from the ancient ones."

Research Notes

Description: A messy bundle of papers, sketches, and cryptic annotations.

Usage: Studying the notes with a successful Investigation or Lore check can reveal clues about puzzles, creature weaknesses, historical events, or the location of items. The information is fragmented and may contain inaccuracies.
"Someone was here before us... what did they find?"

Lockpick Set

Description: A standard set of tools for manipulating mechanical locks.

Usage: Allows a character to attempt to pick locks with a successful Dexterity or Security check. The difficulty depends on the complexity of the lock.
"Jiggling and hoping."

Binoculars

Description: Optical devices for viewing distant objects.

Usage: Grants advantage on visual Perception checks when observing things far away. Useful for scouting or surveillance.
"Seeing is believing... or at least confirming."

First Aid Spray

Description: A quick-application medical spray for treating minor injuries.

Usage: Heals a small amount of HP instantly. Can be used on oneself or others. A quick fix when a full medic kit isn't available or practical.
"Just a little sting."

Ancient Coin

Description: A heavy coin made of an unfamiliar alloy, bearing strange symbols.

Usage: Its historical or monetary value is significant. Can be used as a bribe, traded for goods or information, or potentially serve as a minor artifact in specific circumstances (GM's discretion).
"Looks valuable..."

Dust Mask

Description: A simple mask designed to filter airborne particles.

Usage: Provides protection against inhaled dust, spores, or mild non-magical gases. Useful in tombs, dusty archives, or areas with poor air quality.
"Better safe than coughing."

Crowbar

Description: A sturdy metal bar, good for leverage.

Usage: Can be used to force open stuck doors, pry lids off crates, or as a makeshift weapon (low damage). Provides advantage on Strength checks for breaking objects.

””Sometimes brute force is the answer.””

Rope

Description: Fifty feet of durable rope.

Usage: Essential for climbing, rappelling, or tying things up. Can be used in conjunction with a grappling hook or other anchor points.

””Never leave home without it.””

Lighter

Description: A simple, refillable lighter.

Usage: Provides a small flame for illumination in very close quarters, lighting candles or torches, or setting flammable objects alight. Limited fuel.

””A little light in the darkness.””

Journal/Notebook

Description: A blank notebook and pen, or one already partially filled.

Usage: Players can use it to take notes, sketch maps, or record observations. If found, it may contain clues, lore, or personal entries from a previous owner.

””Thoughts and observations, for posterity.””

Strange Idol

Description: A small, unsettling carving of unknown origin.

Usage: Holding or studying the idol may cause minor Sanity loss (GM’s discretion). It might be a key to an ancient puzzle, a focus for certain rituals, or simply a disturbing curiosity.

””It watches you when you’re not looking.””

Tablet Fragment

Description: A piece of a stone or clay tablet inscribed with ancient script.

Usage: Requires a successful Lore or Linguistics check to decipher. May contain fragments of spells, historical records, or clues to puzzles. Can potentially be combined with other fragments.

””Words from a forgotten age.””

Lucky Charm

Description: A small, seemingly ordinary object that brings a sense of comfort or familiarity.

Usage: When held or focused upon during a moment of stress, the holder can make a Sanity check with advantage.
"A small comfort in unsettling times."

Miniature EMP Device

Description: A compact electronic device emitting a focused electromagnetic pulse.

Usage: Single use. Can disable electronic devices (security cameras, simple bots, electronic locks) in a small radius for 1d4 rounds. Does not affect ancient Atlantian technology.
"Lights out."

Graveyard Dust

Description: Soil gathered from an ancient burial site, it feels unnaturally cold.

Usage: Can be used in certain rituals (requires Lore check). May have minor negative effects on living creatures (GM's discretion). Particularly effective against certain types of Undead or spiritual entities.
"The earth remembers."

Polaroid Camera

Description: An old instant camera with a few film packs remaining.

Usage: Can take pictures that develop instantly. May reveal details or entities not visible to the naked eye, or capture spectral phenomena. Each picture consumes one film pack.
"A different perspective."

Ancient Compass

Description: A compass that doesn't point north, but towards a significant source of ancient energy or a hidden location.

Usage: Requires a successful Lore or Investigation check to interpret. Its needle might react to nearby Atlantian technology or points of power.
"Not all who wander are lost, but this helps."

Chemical Analyzer

Description: A small, handheld electronic device for identifying chemical substances.

Usage: Requires a successful Science check to operate. Can analyze small samples of liquids, powders, or residues to identify poisons, strange compounds, or the composition of materials.
"Just a little sample... for science."

Whispering Jar

Description: A ceramic jar with a tightly fitted lid, covered in faded symbols.

Usage: When the lid is opened, it faintly replays sounds that occurred in its vicinity in the past, up to a few minutes (GM's discretion). Useful for overhearing past conversations or events in a location.

""Echoes of what was.""

Glow Sticks

Description: Sealed plastic tubes containing chemicals that produce light when mixed.

Usage: Crack to activate.

Provides a reliable, if not very bright, light source for several hours. Can be used to mark paths or leave simple visual signals.

""Crack, shake, illuminate.""

Symbolic Key

Description: Not a physical key, but an object or symbol that resonates with ancient locks and mechanisms.

Usage: Requires mental focus and potentially a successful Lore or Concentration check to activate. Can bypass certain ancient Atlantian or magically sealed locks, but may have limited uses or require specific conditions.

""The lock is not of metal, but of mind.""

Lockpick Set

Description: Tools for bypassing simple locks.

Usage: Allows a character to attempt to pick locks with a successful Dexterity or Security check. The difficulty depends on the complexity of the lock.

""Jiggling and hoping.""
