

A Fragment from Thoth (8)

The surface world is but a dream, a fleeting, shallow, sunlit gleam.
Below the surface, truths reside, where ancient currents softly glide.
Descend the layers, deep and still, to reach the knowledge of the will.