

Another Admonition from the Eagle Folk (6)

We observe your misguided steps towards the sealed knowledge. Your fascination is a dangerous indulgence. True wisdom lies not in uncovering every secret, but in understanding which doors must remain shut for the good of all.

Your insistence on this path demonstrates a fundamental lack of maturity and grasp of the greater picture. The energies of the Repository are not inert artifacts; they are potent, and their release would have catastrophic repercussions. Trust our judgment. We bear the weight of true understanding, a burden you are thankfully spared. Do not seek to share it.
