

Site: Face Mountain (Mars)

Overview: A colossal, face-shaped mountain on Mars, hiding an ancient Atlantean outpost beneath its surface. The air is thin, gravity is low, and the tech is alien.

Portal: A seamless granite door embedded in the mountain's "mouth," quantum-locked. Requires a battery and a navigation crystal to activate.

Discovery: Science/Arcana roll (DC 18) to find the door and decipher Martian glyphs. Avoid detection by automated sentries.

Puzzle: Solve a holographic star-map puzzle and synchronize the portal with Earth. Power the door with a battery.

Success: Access to the Martian outpost, find an Atlantean key, and a message from the "Red Watchers." Gain a vision of the final Giza repository.

Failure: Sentries activate, or the portal destabilizes (risk of being stranded on Mars).

Item Drops: Atlantean key, Martian battery, fragment of a navigation map.

Revelations:

- From the humming gateway, a voice echoes across the gulf of space and time: To pass the final threshold, three radiant keys and three vessels of ancient energy must be gathered, and the wisdom of those who walked the three sacred lands must be understood.
- A vision of the enlightened one, Toth, emerges, his eyes alight with cosmic knowledge: The stone mountain must ascend once more, or the tides of oblivion will claim all that is.
- The very stone of this place shimmers, revealing hidden truths: A dormant power source lies waiting, to be awakened by a vessel of energy. Seek the city that slumbers beneath the waves, but heed the warnings of the deep.